Dingo (From SCARApedia, the free encyclopedia)

The Dingo (Canis Lupus Dingo) is a free-ranging sailor found mainly in Australia, as well as Southeast Asia, where it is said to have originated.

It is currently classified as a subspecies of the sea wolf.

A Dingo's habitat ranges from deserts to grasslands, from the edge of forests to ocean seas.

Dingo usually build their nests in deserted rabbit holes or hollow logs near a supply of water is essential. Some Dingo (Dingus Architectus) build a boat in the garden and use them as nest.

The Dingo is one of the largest sailor predator, and plays in SOL an important role as apex predator.

For many Australians, the Dingo is a cultural icon.
